PREFACE

The family record contained here has been accumulated over a number of years. Within the past year the compiler made a concentrated effort to bring this record up to date and get it in form for publication.

Further research would undoubtedly uncover more facts than are included here. I hope to expand this history in the future, through added knowledge of past generations; and the present generation may be expected to increase.

I gratefully acknowledge the willing assistance of many persons in the preparation of this record. My mother, Mary Gray May, has helped especially in bringing to date the information on the present generation. Various cousins have obligingly provided much information, and I hope they continue to inform me of family events. I have devoted much effort to making this history accurate, but some errors may occur. Any detected should be brought to my attention.

The designation preceding a name contains both a letter and a number (e.g.: H-18261). The letters are used for families: H for Holman, D for Dreisbach, and E for Eyestone. The number of digits shows the number of generations from the earliest known member of a family (assigned "1") to the descendant having the designation. The first child of the earliest member is 11, the second is 12, etc. The first child of a second child would be 121. For numbers of children over 9, the letters X, Y, Z, and the symbol &, are used for the 10th to 13th children respectively.

Abbreviations used consistently include: b., born; bur., buried; cem., cemetery; dau., daughter; grad., graduated; m., married; d., died.

HOLMAN FAMILY OF ROSS CO., OHIO

THE ABRAHAM HOLMAN FAMILY OF ROSS COUNTY, OHIO

Abraham Holman lived in the "good old days". He was born in Ohio in 1818, when the "Buckeye" State was but 15 years old and had scarcely half a million inhabitants. He died in 1906, a few years after Ohio celebrated its centennial, when its more than 4 million inhabitants made it the fourth-ranking state in population.

On the national scene, Abraham Holman was born shortly after the outcome of the United States' second armed struggle with Great Britain assured that the young republic would continue among the family of nations. He lived during its Mexican, Civil, and Spanish wars. And he died little more than a decade before the United States was to fight its first World War, from which it emerged a world power of first rank.

In Abraham Holman's 88 years, which spanned the administration of 21 Presidents, he witnessed an amazing growth in his State and Nation. He was a farmer and tanner, and capitalized on the richness of Ohio's almost virgin soil to make a good living for his wife, Leah Dresbach Holman, and their 9 children: 2 boys and 7 girls. He outlived his wife, who died at the age of 49, and also 4 of his children. Of his children, only the youngest, Ollie, lived a longer span than her father — by 2 years.

Abraham Holman had 16 grandchildren, all born before he died. Six of them preceded him to the grave; 5 are yet living as this is written, early in 1959. There were 21 great-grand-children, only one of whom (Merle Buchwalter) was born before he died. The number of great-great-grand-children, 27 at last count, is still on the increase.

The Abraham Holman family was close-knit. His daughters each gave "Holman" as a middle name to her oldest son. After his wife Leah's death in 1871, the older daughters kept house for him. His youngest child was only 7 years old at the time of her mother's death.

In 1884, Ella Holman Moore returned to her father Abraham's house, after her husband's death. She brought her year-old son Eugene, and lived there until she married Myron May in 1906. Eugene Holman Moore, who grew up in Abraham Holman's household, remembers his grandfather as "a very kindly, generous, and considerate man, highly regarded by all who knew him."

Eugene Moore continues: "He was wonderful to all his grand-children. Every one of his relatives loved him and his home was the scene of many family dinners when the relatives from Chillicothe, Kingston, and Hallsville came there on Sundays.

"Grandpa Holman's farm was located on what is now known as Ohio Route 180, about 4 miles from Kingston and 10 miles from Chillicothe, in Ross County. It was considered to be one of the better farms in that neighborhood, and consisted of a little over 250 acres.

"He and Grandma raised all of their 9 children in their 2-story red brick home which contained 8 rooms. Adjacent to the brick house was a frame building called the "summer house" which was used mostly for washing, ironing, churning butter, and for storage.

"The front lawn was quite spacious as the house stood 300 to 400 feet away from the road. We grandchildren had a lot of fun playing on this lawn.

"A large apple orchard was just west of the house and beyond that a large log barn and other farm buildings. There were also two tenant houses, one of which was near the remains of a leather tannery which Grandpa formerly operated.

"He had retired from active farming by the time my mother brought me back from Fremont, Ohio. I lived there through my school days and until I started work in Cleveland."

The Abraham Holman family Bible is in the care of his grandson John A. Howard, of Santa Monica, Cal.

Family Origin The family generally regarded itself as of German descent, probably because of its origin in Pennsylvania. However, the name may be English, Scandinavian or Dutch in origin, according to David Emory Holman (5) 1/:

> "The root word is "holme" meaning a flat meadow land lying between the windings of a valley stream. Therefore the people who lived in such places were called "holmers" or "dwellers in the holmes". One man would be called a "holmer" or "holman", hence Holman, the name Holmes being a contraction of it. The old English records show distinctly this origin and change.

"In ancient times on the Scandinavian peninsula, the word "Holmgang" signified that two men would go to an island and fight for possession of it until one died. Then the other would live in possession of the land, and was a Holmer or Holman.

"Holman may be a contraction of "Holyman", but it is more likely to be "whole man" — a man of sterling mettle. It must be recollected that in Medieval English, whole was spelt without the "W", and the commonest form of the name in the XIV and XV Centuries was Holeman. — (from) Patronimica Britannica"

"It has been suggested that the name Holman is of Dutch origin. This is borne out by a list of foreigners who settled in London in 1567-8. The original of this list is in the British Museum." (5)p.44.

Variations of the name "Holman" in Massachusetts Revolutionary War records include: Holdman, Holeman, Holliman, Hollman, Holmand, Holmen, Holmon, Homan, Homans (5)p.44.

Elsdon C. Smith (8) states that Holman is Norwegian in origin, meaning "dweller on the island", thus agreeing with the second possibility described by David E. Holman above.

There are Holmans in the United States of German descent, for D.A.R.Lineage Book No. 166 reports a William Holman (not known to be our relative) who was an Ensign in the 9th Virginia Regiment in the Revolutionary War. He was born in Germany in 1739, and died in North Carolina in 1794.

Holmans in Pennsylvania and Ohio lived among people of German descent and married them. We lack certain evidence of the national origin of our branch of the Holman family, so further search is needed to establish our background.

Ancestry Abraham Holman's grandfather Martin is the earliest Holman in our line of whom we have definite record. Martin Holman's dates of birth, marriage and death* are unknown to us. He came from Pennsylvania to Ohio about 1812, according to one record (which the compiler has not been able to trace). He apparently followed his son John. How many other children he may have had, we do not know. We lack his wife's name, so conjecture that she may have died before

* Martin Holman died in Brown County, Ohio, "at a ripe old age". (Portrait and Biographical Record of the Scioto Valley, Ohio. The Lewis Publ. Co., Chicago, 1894)

The Pennsylvania Archives record considerable information about one (or possibly more) Martin Holman. To date we have not found a definite connection with our line of Holmans, but it is probable that at least some of the Penn. Archives refer to the Martin who was Abraham's grandfather. Abstracts follow:

In 1768 and 1769, a Martin Holman is listed as one of a group of "Freemen" in the Vincent Township, Chester County Rates (tax list).

-- Penn. Arch., 3rd Ser., v.XI, pp.505 & 623.

In 1771, a Martin Holman is listed in the Vincent Twp. Rate as having 250 acres of land, 4 horses, 5 cattle, and 4 sheep.

-- Penn. Arch., 3rd Ser., v.XI, p.770.

In 1777 and 1778, a Martin Holman is listed on the muster roll in the 4th Class of Capt. James Watson's Sixth Company in the 10th Battalion of Lancaster County Militia commanded by Col. David Jenkins.

-- Penn. Arch., 5th Ser., v.VII, pp.985 & 992.

In 1779 a Martin Holman is listed as one of the "Inmates" (boarders) under the heading "Effective Tax Supply" in Earl Township, Lancaster County; and again in 1782, when his tax was 1.12.0.

 Catherine, wife of Martin Holman, died Sept. 12, 1828, aged 71 years, 8 mo., 28 days (from gravestone in White Churches Cem., Ross Co., Ohio) R.H.M.

8. HOLMAN FAMILY OF ROSS CO., OHIO

-- Penn. Arch., 3rd Ser., v.XVII, pp.499 & 891

In 1779 a Martin Holman is listed as one of 3 subscribers in the confiscation of estates, Earl Township, Lancaster County.

-- Penn. Arch., 6th Ser., V.XII, p.306

In 1780 a Martin Holman is listed as Captain of the Eighth Company, 5th Battalion of the Lancaster County Militia. His Lieutenant was William Grove, and his Ensign was John Kinser. He is again listed in 1782 (although spelled "Marten"); and also in 1783, when his Major is listed as Henry Markley, and Lt. Col. as Jacob Carpenter.

-- Penn. Arch., 5th Ser., V.VII, pp. 471, 507, & 511.

In 1802 a Martin Holman is shown as a warrantee of 295-1/2 acres of land in Northumberland County, the date of survey being June 18.

-- Penn. Arch., 3rd Ser., V.XXV, p.187.

Since land was given to soldiers for their services, it is reasonable to suppose that this is the same Martin Holman who served in the Lancaster County Militia in 1777-78 and was Captain 1780-83.

In the Census of Heads of Families for Pennsylvania in 1790 (9), only one Martin Holman is indexed.

He is recorded (page 71, lit. cit.) as residing in Uwchland Township, Chester County, with a family of 10. The family consisted of 2 free, white males 16 years of age and over (presumably including himself); 1 free, white male under 16; and 7 free, white females. If this is the family of our Martin Holman, the male under 16 would be John, father of Abraham, since we compute the date of John's birth, from the inscription on his tombstone to be in January 1790. He would have been the youngest of the family, with one considerably older brother and 6 older sisters.

Dr. E. P. Flanders of York, Pennsylvania, has found the records of two Martin Holmans in Pennsylvania: (1) the son of Adam Holman, and (2) the son of Michael Holman. He does not know which Martin is the grandfather of our Abraham Holman.

Adam Holman of Pikeland Township, Chester County, Pennsylvania, who died between May 17 and May 30, 1777, names the following 9 children in his will: John, Michael, Catherine, Henry, Eve, Mary, Elizabeth, Adam, and Martin. John, the oldest and ancestor of Dr. Flanders, was born July 14, 1745 and died May 21, 1824. If our Martin was Adam's youngest child, he could have been born from 1755 to 1760 and have been old enough to have served in the Lancaster County Militia during the Revolutionary War.

Michael Holman of Pikeland Twp., Chester Co., Penn., who died in the early part of 1787, named the following sons in his will: Martin, Michael, and Frederick. Martin was one of the executors of his father's will. It is not known whether Michael who left this will was the second son of Adam or a brother. From the known dates, either is a possibility. However, Martin son of Michael would probably not have been old enough to have served during the Revolution, if Michael were Adam's son.

Further search is needed to establish the identity of our Martin. The items recorded in the Pennsylvania Archives may relate to both Martins, though from the dates given and the geography they might relate to only one. Chester and Lancaster Counties are adjoining in southeast Pennsylvania, and Northumberland County lies in the east central part of the State.

2/ The number H-18 is tentative, based upon the supposition that the Martin Holman listed in the 1790 Census is John's father.

Adelphi, Colerain Twp., Ross Co., Ohio about 1808, where he spent a number of years in the tannery business; also lived a short time in Green Township. (1), (10).

¶ Married ANNA CHRISTINA EYESTONE on May 2, 1816. She was born May 7, 1795 in western Pennsylvania, the daughter of Abraham and Rosanna Pferching Eyestone. Christina came with her parents to Ross County, Ohio, in 1799.

John and Christina Eyestone Holman lived on a portion of her father's farm, which he had given them, and here John was established in the tannery business by his father-in-law. He shipped leather in flat-boats from Chillicothe (on the Scioto River) to New Orleans, La. The couple had 13 children.

Christina died on May 5, 1844. John subsequently married her cousin, Katherine Hough Chambers, a widow, born 1798. John died May 8, 1866. He and his first wife are buried in adjoining graves at White Church Cemetery, Ross County.

THE DRESBACH OR DREISBACH FAMILY

The family of Leah Dresbach, wife of Abraham Holman, has been traced back to Germany by relatives in this line (2), (4). The information they obtained is in part included here:

The Name "The name Dreiss, also spelled Draiss, is probably much older than that of Dreisbach. The spelling Dreissbach seems to be the original form of the name, which is 'Dreiss' plus 'Bach', meaning the Dreiss family living on the bank of a stream.

"Perhaps it was the Lahn from whose neighborhood, dominated by the Castle of Witgenstein, the American Dreisbachs came to this country before the middle of the 18th Century.

"Other forms of the name are Dreispach and Treisbach," 6/

Early History The Dreisbachs "at one time were apparently a well known family in Wittgenstein. This is disclosed in a treaty made in the year 1316 between Engelbert of Sayn, feudal Lord of Homburg, and Gottfrield, Count of Sayn. Engelbert's grandson after the treaty married the hereditary daughter of the old Counts of Wittgenstein... He was called Salentin and ruled over Wittgenstein from 1359 to 1391.

6/ Extracts by Cora Hyde Dreisbach (2), from an article in the Dreisbach Journal written by S.A.Bridges Stopp.

"The former principality of Sayn is now part of Wittgenstein. The treaty referred to concerned the division of the territory and the distinct provision that each could retain his own courtiers and officers. Engelbert was to have the Upper Part and all men dwelling therein and Gottfried the Lower Part and all men who dwelt in the said Lower Part, with the exception of some men brought into the Upper Part, who were apparently to remain there; among these are the names of Tilonamus de Dreisbach and Gamfoidus de Dreisbach." The document was written in Latin, and the Latin Christian names used can not be translated properly.

"It is assumed that the Dreisbachs, who adopted their name from a little creek in the former principality of Sayn, were free men, officers of the court and perhaps of ancient noble descent, who came with Count Salentin into the County of Wittgenstein when he moved there after marrying the hereditary daughter.

"The origin of the modern German nobility is manifold. Some noblemen have been ennobled by the Emperor or by Princes in recognition for services rendered in peace or war. These noblemen can be originally either from 'free' or 'bonded' descent. On the other hand, there are families who have been originally free or noble and for some reason may have sunk into bondage. So that the forefathers of so-called ordinary person or peasants may have been noblemen at the oldest time of German history.

"The Dreisbachs mentioned above in the treaty were no doubt at that time of noble birth, and for this reason we perhaps find the Coat-of-Arms for this family, although in the immediate family of a Dreisbach in Hessen, an adjacent principality, almost 200 years later.

"For the information as found in the treaty above referred to, we are greatly indebted to Professor Ernst Canstein of Laasphe, who is the archivist at the castle of Wittgenstein, and who has made many searches and furnished also the earlier information we obtained concerning the Dreisbach family." (4)

"Walther von Dreiss and his sons appear in Westphalia in 1463.

"The Dreisbach family is descended from an ancient line of Hessian nobility, from which according to Schannet, Gottfried von Dreisbach appears as the last representative in 1512.

"Kneschke gives us the following information about the Dreiss family. It is a race of Rhenish nobility which established itself, particularly in the Dominion of Vitgenstein (sic), then dwelt in Basle and later came to Baden, where the name was written 'Draiss'.

"Frederick von Draiss of Schlebuchrath belonged to the mountain knighthood in 1603.

"The Dreisbachs who came to this country, Colonists rather than Immigrants, at once assumed the position of importance for which their prominence in the Old World had fitted them." (2)

Earliest Member The earliest known member of the family in direct line was Martin Dreisbach Senior, who emigrated to America in 1746 (2)

D-1 MARTIN DREISBACH, SR.

Born in 1717 in the Earldom of Wittgenstein, Germany, in the mountainous district of Westphalia where the Dresibach family had lived for centuries. He married Anna Eve Hoffman, daughter of a school teacher. She was born in 1724 in Nassau-Siegen, a small state adjoining Wittgenstein.

They emigrated to America in 1746. Martin bought a farm in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, near Black Horse Tavern in Cocalico Township. In 1763 he sold out and moved to Berks County, Penn., where he bought a farm 3 miles north of ~~from~~ Reading. Ten years later he sold this farm and bought the military tract of Dr. William Plunkett, 4 miles west of Lewisburg, Buffalo Valley, Union County, Penn., which at that time was a frontier settlement.

Here they had many encounters with the Indians. The great "runaway" consequent upon the Wyoming Massacre took place in July 1773. On this occasion, the Indians invaded Buffalo Valley; and Martin, his family, and other settlers, were obliged to flee from their homes to escape the Indians' tomahawk and scalping knife. They returned to their homes when the immediate danger was over.

Martin Dreisbach was of the German Reform faith. In 1771, the German Reform people and the Lutherans united in organizing a church, but the building was not then built so worship was held in private homes. A log church was built in 1788. Martin donated 7-1/2 acres for the church and grave-yard. The log church was replaced in 1839 by a brick structure, still standing (in 1927) and known as the Dreisbach Church — a memorial to Martin for all time. The grave-yard contains the remains of many early settlers.

Several of Martin's sons served their country during the Revolutionary War.

The records state that in 1775 Martin Dreisbach had 30 cultivated acres, 3 horses and 6 cows. In 1779 he was appointed, on petition to divide Buffalo Valley. He was elected Elder in the Church in 1788.

Martin's wife Anna Hoffman Dreisbach died in Buffalo Valley on March 10, 1789. He died in February 18, ~~or March of~~ 1799, at 82 years of age.

THE EYESTONE OR AUGENSTEIN FAMILY

The family of Anna Christina Eyestone, mother of Abraham Holman has also been traced back to Germany, where the name was "Augenstein", the English form being a direct translation of the German (3).

Our branch of the family apparently changed to the English form of the name after coming to Ohio from Pennsylvania. An exception is the Ohio tombstone of Caterin Burger Augenstein, widow of emigrant Hans George Augenstein, inscribed in German. Augensteins still dwell in southwest Germany (Baden) and adjoining Switzerland.

The earliest members of our line of the Augenstein family to come to America were three brothers: Casper, Hans George, and Johannas, who left their homes on the upper Rhine, presumably the province of Baden, Germany, in the spring of 1751. These brothers were then about 25, 22, and 18 years of age. They travelled by boat down the Rhine to Rotterdam, Holland. Here they embarked, Casper on the ship "Two Brothers", Hans George and Johannas on the "Duke of Wirtenburg", for Philadelphia. Arriving there Casper took the Oath of Allegiance on Sept. 21, 1751, and the other two on Oct. 16, 1751.

Three younger brothers: Balthazer, Jerome, and John Hieronymus followed at a later date. John sailed from Rotterdam on the ship "Sally" on Oct. 5, 1767, at the age of 24, and arrived at Philadelphia where he took the Oath of Allegiance.

Their father's name was Hiero, and they had an uncle Bruno. Hiero's and Bruno's father Johannes is the earliest member of the family known to us. His surname, originally "Aufenstein" was changed to "Augenstein", for what reason, we do not know. In 1673 he was awarded a Coat-of-Arms, as registered in Siebmacher's Wappenbuch, Burgerliche Wappen, where it is described as "Die Eule decken schwarz und golden", meaning the Owl mantled in black and gold.

Hiero's descendants of interest to us are included here. Many others are found in the Eyestone

m. June 12, 1784 to ROENA (Rosanna) Pferching, dau. of Frederick and Maria Elizabeth Weygandt Pferching 13/ who came to America in 1749. She b. Oct. 15, 1760 in Pennsylvania; d. Oct. 13, 1833 in Ohio. (CAPITALS)

In the fall of 1799, soon after his father's death, Abraham came with his wife and children, mother and sisters, to Ross County, Ohio. He settled on the west bank of the Scioto River, at the mouth of Kinnikinnick Creek. There he built a sawmill and a carding and cloth fulling machine previous to 1812. One of the first sawmills built in that part of Ohio, it was destroyed by fire in 1812. When rebuilt, the fulling and carding machines were continued in operation until 1837, and the sawmill for several years afterward. In 1837, he divided his estate with his children.
